Alumni Poetry Corner:

"Delusions of Grandeur"

By: Ray Flete (Session 1)

What could one do with a mind born fickle yet fixed on ones self?
Enamored by mirrors,
But without regard for ones own reflection.

One perceivably far removed from vanity,
But forever peering into his own eyes.
Searching..
For something...

Confined to the furthest chambers of his mind,
Those indignant parts of himself demand more worthy quarters.
Perhaps upon his sleeve.

They fester and produce the brood of hate and angst,
The driving force behind his stagnation.
